

GHD Group

Board Statement – Quality

At GHD, we harness the experience and capability of our connected global network to deliver quality outcomes to our clients across the entire asset value chain. Our core purpose is to work together with our clients to create lasting community benefit. We are guided by our client-service led strategy which responds to global demands of water, energy and urbanisation.

We are committed to the continual improvement of the effectiveness of core supporting systems which include our Quality Management System and the related Information Management System which encompass our commitment to satisfy the applicable requirements in all professional services undertaken for our clients.

We maintain certification of our Quality Management System to ISO9001 in the delivery of our projects across the enterprise. Through implementation of the System, we aim for client satisfaction and continual improvement.

Where required by our clients or otherwise determined by GHD, Information Management (IM) practices are implemented that conform with ISO19650-2 and we are committed to maintaining certification to this standard. The application of ISO19650 is intended to ensure consistent information management throughout project lifecycles. We seek to enhance collaboration, data integrity, and quality through the Information Management in Project Delivery (IMPD) framework.
